In this workshop students will contemplate world views that have shaped the history and literature of cultures as well as individuals. This workshop will give students the opportunity to think critically and write effectively. Colleges stress that students need to be skillful readers and writers in order to achieve their academic goals. Many of the writing activities and assignments will be based on the research and practices of the UCI Writing Project and the Institute for Excellence in Writing.

11:30-12:30 Lunch Break

Period 2: Current Events (12:30-3:00)

In order for students to become positive contributors to the global community, they need to become aware of national and international events that are shaping our world today. We will read and discuss current events and look for links to the past.
